New Providers at Methodist Occupational Medicine

This fall, Methodist Occupational Health & Wellness was pleased to welcome two additional providers to our medical staff in the Des Moines region. Our clinics are now staffed by six regularly-scheduled providers and one “as-needed” provider, for a total of seven occupational medicine specialists. Please help us welcome our two newest providers:

Whitney Ceretti, PA-C

In September, Whitney Ceretti, PA-C, began seeing patients in our West Des Moines clinic location. A graduate of the Des Moines University Physician Assistant program, Ceretti discovered a passion for occupational medicine early in her search for a career option. Her husband owns a local construction company, so she has first-hand knowledge about the importance of workplace health and safety and its impact on morale, productivity, and quality of life for employees.

Brian Neurohr, PA-C

This month, Brian Neurohr, PA-C, joined our program as a PRN (“per required need”) provider who will practice in all three of our clinic locations. Brian graduated from the University of Nebraska Medical School and has been a practicing PA since 2011. He is currently a full-time member of the Iowa Army National Guard at Camp Dodge in Des Moines as part of the Medical Operations team, where he provides company training. Brian enjoys

Methodist Occupational Health & Wellness has been partnering with Central Iowa business and industry since 1988 with the goal of reducing work-related injuries and expenses. We offer specialized injury care, preventative screenings, and comprehensive on-site wellness programs. Our clinics exist to serve employers by increasing employee productivity and safety, including safe return to work following an injury. Methodist Occupational Health & Wellness currently operates three full-service clinic locations in the Des Moines metro, and the program is the only hospital-based occupational medicine provider in the area.
