ABOUT OUR HOSPITAL

HISTORY

It could be said that Finley Hospital feels like a home away from home. The warm, friendly staff exudes a sense of family and unity with their patients and with one another. What many may not know is that Finley actually was a residence, belonging to Dr. John W. Finley and his wife, Helen.

Dr. Finley was Dubuque's first general physician and the second permanent physician of both the county of Dubuque and the state of Iowa. He had the reputation for being a kind man with a deep, invested interest in his patients. This was a well-earned reputation, for Dr. Finley would travel many miles by horseback to attend to patients in surrounding areas and would even help with household chores before getting back on the saddle and traveling to another patient in need. He and his wife were very active within the Dubuque community, belonging to the early settlers group, helping to organize the Presbyterian Church, and forming the Northwest Medical Society (currently known as the Dubuque County Medical Society.)

Dr. Finley always wanted to establish a medical school and a hospital. Unfortunately, his efforts to do so were unsuccessful and he eventually passed away before he could see his dreams come to fruition. Helen helped to honor one of her deceased husband's two wishes. In her will and testament, she specified that her estate should be used to found a hospital in Dubuque named after her husband. The articles of incorporation for The Finley Hospital Company were adopted February 21, 1890, and the Finley residence transformed into a twenty-seven room hospital with only 40 beds.

Although Finley has grown rapidly from its humble beginnings, now housing 126 beds, it still prides itself in carrying on the legacy of Dr. Finley's compassion and active involvement in the community. It is without a doubt that Dr. Finley would be proud of the way Finley Hospital takes care of our neighbors by making sure each patient is treated as an individual with different needs.

VOLUNTEER SERVICES MISSION AND GOALS

The Volunteer goals are to assist the hospital staff, releasing them for essential duties only they can perform; to bring a greater personal dimension to the delivery of healthcare, and to serve as ambassadors between Finley and the community.

The goals of the Volunteer Services Department are to continually improve communication, training and education of the Volunteers and staff regarding the volunteer program; effectively and creatively integrate Volunteers into the total system of the hospital; to make appropriate use of each Volunteer's background and skills; to recognize the efforts and contributions of the Volunteers and provide opportunities for growth.

The Finley Hospital Department of Volunteer Services, the Auxiliary and the Sunshine Circle are three distinct, separate groups, working in collaboration to contribute skills, talent, effort and finances to assist the hospital in achieving its objectives in healthcare and education.

OSHA and the Center for Disease Control have enacted new guidelines for the control of tuberculosis in healthcare facilities. All volunteers will need to undergo skin testing at the beginning of their volunteer service.

WHEELCHAIR ETIQUETTE

As a volunteer you may be asked to assist patients or visitors in wheelchairs. Once you have received wheelchair training from staff you may assist visitors or patients as directed by staff. REMEMBER- anytime you are asked to perform a task you feel unsure of you should politely decline and seek staff or other volunteer for assistance.

It is of vital importance to set the brakes before anyone sits down in a wheelchair or gets out of a wheelchair. The chair could otherwise roll out from beneath the person. Footrests should also be used to keep the patient comfortable and also to keep their feet out of the way. A volunteer may not transport patients with IV's. Volunteers may transport patients or visitors using portable oxygen tanks. Listed below are some of the important techniques to remember when using wheelchairs.

- Have patient place arms in lap when being transported.
- Push wheelchair from behind, stay close to avoid back strain.
- Open doors then back the chair through.
- Use caution at corners and doorways.
- Back the wheelchair in and out elevators when possible.
- Alert the patient to where you are going; warn them of bumps, if possible.
- Be sensitive to those requiring a wide chair.
- When you notice a dirty chair let the volunteer office know. Broken chairs may be taken directly to maintenance.
- If ever in doubt as to where the patient/visitor is to be taken, always ask.
- Never attempt to lift a person into or out of a wheelchair.
- Do not take patients or visitors across the parking lot in a wheelchair.

Use the phrase “for your safety” as appropriate. For your safety I will get a staff member to assist. For your safety we must lock the brakes. For your safety I need to get a different wheelchair.

WORKING WITH PATIENTS

PATIENT'S BILL OF RIGHTS/ ORGANIZATIONAL ETHICS

Always remember situations that seem routine for you may be a great emergency in the mind of the patient and family. Your thoughtful consideration is most important to reassure others.

Volunteers are subject to the same code of ethics as doctors, nurses and other healthcare professionals. You must hold in strict confidence information of a professional nature acquired in the course of duty. You must refrain from offering advice to patients regarding their diagnosis or treatment. You must refrain from soliciting free medical advice, medicine or supplies. You must refer matters of religious activity to the chaplain. Volunteers must conduct themselves with courtesy and dignity at all times. In the process of performing volunteer service, you may overhear statements between doctors and patients and others that must be considered confidential. You are directed not to discuss outside the hospital, or even with other hospital associates or volunteers, this kind of information unless required as part of your duties. Even casual conversation with others may be overheard and violate the right to privacy.

If you have an ethical dilemma, please discuss it with your coordinator. If it cannot be resolved, it can be taken to the Ethics Committee for resolution. You may contact Chaplain James Mehlretter with any Ethic questions or concerns at 589-2534.

INFECTION CONTROL

STANDARD PRECAUTIONS

BLOOD BORNE PATHOGENS/ EXPOSURE CONTROL

The Finley Hospital strives to promote a safe work place in an effort to minimize the incidence of illness/injury experienced by volunteers, students, and staff through work place practice control. OSHA has enacted the Blood Borne Pathogens Standard, which is to "reduce exposure to Hepatitis B Virus, Human Immunodeficiency Virus, and other blood borne pathogens encountered in the work place.

At The Finley Hospital, we observe the practice of “Universal Precautions” (Standard Precautions) to prevent contact with blood and other potentially infectious materials. Never touch blood or body fluids.

Personal hygiene and hand washing are the two most important practices to prevent the spread of infection:

- Wash hands when you enter or exit each room
- Wash hands before and after contact with a patient
- Wash hands after you remove gloves
- Wash hands immediately if they are contaminated with blood or other bodily fluids
- Use waterless gels or foams between hand washings (only if hands are not grossly contaminated)
- Use only hand washing and moisturizing products that are provided by the hospital

Eating, drinking, applying cosmetics or lip balm, as well as the handling of contact lenses is prohibited in the work area where there is potential for exposure.

Uniforms penetrated by blood or other infectious materials should be changed as soon as possible. At The Finley Hospital, you will need to change your uniform, and launder it yourself. Items containing bloody body fluids must be placed in red, biohazard bags according to OSHA regulations. Environmental Services should be contacted for spill cleanup and disinfecting the area.

Volunteers involved in an incident where a potential exposure to blood borne pathogens has occurred must report the incident to their supervisor. The supervisor will provide assistance in filling out a variance/incidence/occurrence report and make sure that the volunteer receives appropriate medical consultation and treatment (if required).

HAND WASHING PROCEDURE

- Wash hands with liquid soap. Waterless soap (such as Purell) is an acceptable alternative and Purell dispensers are found throughout the hospital.
- Wash for 15 seconds, rubbing well.
- Pay special attention to creases, between fingers, rings, and fingernails.

ISOLATION

Patients are isolated for various reasons. A volunteer should NOT enter a room marked “ISOLATION” unless specifically trained to do so. Always check with the nurses’ station if called on an errand for and isolation patient, or for e-mail, mail, or flower delivery. Isolation is not only used to protect visitors from disease but also to protect the patient from visitors' germs. In these instances, ask hospital staff at the nurse's station to deliver the flowers or mail for you.

If you enter an isolation room by mistake, notify the charge nurse and your Volunteer Manager immediately!
